Partners Wealth Group proud to join Hockey Australia as Alumni Partner

Partners Wealth Group is proud to announce a new partnership with Hockey Australia, as the first official Alumni Partner. This exciting collaboration reinforces our shared commitment to high performance, community, and long-term impact—on and off the field.

As one of Australia's leading providers of financial advice and strategic wealth services, Partners Wealth Group has long been passionate about supporting individuals in building a secure future, whether in business, retirement, or life beyond elite sport. This sponsorship reflects our deep alignment with Hockey Australia's values of teamwork, leadership, and preparing individuals for success at every stage of their journey.

"We're thrilled to join Hockey Australia as Alumni Partner," said Mathew Cassidy, Managing Director of Partners Wealth Group. "There is a clear synergy between our two organisations. Both are driven by a high-performance culture and share the view that building a great team around you, helps you to succeed whether that be in life, sport, business or your wealth journey."

Through this partnership, Partners Wealth Group will work closely with Hockey Australia to support its growing network - including delivering meaningful engagement, educational content and strategic financial guidance to Alumni, past and present players and the broader Hockey Australia network.

Mr Cassidy continued. "We look forward to a successful partnership built on shared values, and we're excited to support Hockey Australia in its vision to grow its community and help people at all levels of the game thrive both on and off the pitch."

Hockey Australia OEO David Pryles also welcomed the partnership, noting its strong cultural and strategic alignment.

"We're proud to align Partners Wealth Group with our Alumni community. This landmark partnership combines shared values of teamwork, leadership, and a deep respect for those who have shaped our sport," Hockey Australia CEO David Pryles said.

"Together, we're committed to celebrating and recognising our alumni, and we look forward to a collaborative partnership that supports our past and present players."

The partnership is effective immediately and will see Partners Wealth Group actively involved in supporting alumni engagement activities, including events, financial wellbeing initiatives and education sessions over the next 12 months.
